

TUALATIN CITY SERVICES ARE MOVING!

The City Council voted to proceed with extending Seneca Street in conjunction with the construction of the Nyberg Rivers development (former Kmart site). The construction of Seneca Street and the addition of a traffic signal at SW Seneca Street and Martinazzi Avenue will improve traffic circulation in downtown, enhance pedestrian safety and provide better access to the Library, City Offices and the new shopping center. The new street will require the demolition of the City's existing Council Building located at 18880 SW Martinazzi Avenue. This is an opportunity to complete transportation improvements which have been envisioned for many years.

Proposed Seneca Street Alignment

Construction on the street is expected to begin this spring, so City staff will be moving out of the building starting in March. Staff will be moving into existing City facilities as a temporary solution while work begins on studying long-term options. See the details about the changes below. For more information about the city services relocation or the new development, visit www.tualatinoregon.gov.

STAY ENGAGED

Seneca Street, Street "A" (a street off of Boones Ferry Road which will serve the shopping center), and the City Offices and Library parking lots are still being designed. There will be public meetings prior to the approval of the designs, so we hope you will stay engaged in the process and share your input. Dates for these meetings have not yet been set but are expected to occur in mid to late March. Check the website for information about upcoming public meetings.

The City will also be conducting a long-range Civic Facilities Study to examine the needs for public buildings for the next 30+ years. There will be many opportunities for public engagement as a part of this process. Stay tuned for information about the process in April. Information will be available on the website and in the City newsletter.
